Lund's Dahlia Gardens

Box No. 86

DUNN LORING,

VIRGINIA

In presenting this, my 1930 catalog, I wish to thank my many customers and friends for their kind and generous orders received during 1927, 1928 and 1929—my three years in business.

All tubers are from field-grown clumps, guaranteed true to name, free from disease, to have one or more live eyes and be in good growing condition when shipped. I cannot be held responsible if tubers are allowed to dry out before planting. Any tubers proving unsatisfactory will be replaced or money will be refunded upon return of tubers sent.

DAHLIAS

All Good Healthy Field Grown Stock Not Forced

Dahlias are without doubt one of the finest flowers that can be grown in the garden. They come in flower along about the middle of August and continue until a killing frost. They do not want a real rich ground, but do require considerable cultivation and thorough watering once a week in dry weather. If soil is made too rich, you will get a great overgrown bush with small flowers and few of them or maybe none at all.
